‘Sheer madness’ only thing to call dungeon

Top police, city officials have hard time comparing what they have found in Tacony apartment building One of numerous kids taken from suspects suffered horrible injuries

▶ Captain Joe Green surveyed the living conditions of four victims in the basement of 4724 Longshore Ave.

New details emerged yesterday as the complicated case of the four adults found chained to a basement boiler in Tacony continued to unfold, revealing a human trafficking ring reaching across at least four states in which mentally-disabled people were kidnapped and held captive for their social security checks.

“It’s quite possibly one of the most visible signs of man’s inhumanity to man,” Mayor Michael Nutter said. “And I’m sure there’s much more to find out.”

Police arrested a fourth woman, Jean McIntosh, daughter of alleged ringleader Linda Ann Weston, Tuesday night and charged her with the same offenses as those arrested Saturday. The group traveled to Virginia, Texas, Florida and, eventually, Philadelphia to evade suspicion.

Authorities removed six juveniles and three adults from an apartment building Tuesday on the 4700 block of Longshore Avenue. McIntosh’s two children, aged 2 and 5, were taken into custody yesterday, bringing the total number of juveniles to eight.

Police say they are still attempting to unravel the case, but that ensuring the safety of all of the children involved was their first priority.

‘Worst in 40 years’

One adult found Tuesday was Beatrice Weston, 19, Linda Ann Weston’s niece. Linda Ann was given custody of Beatrice when the child was 8 due to her birth mother’s unspecified medical problems and an ongoing family feud.

Beatrice was reported missing in 2009 because a relative saw her “looking skinny” and worried for her health, Ramsey said. Beatrice suffered healed fractures, burn marks, pellet-gun injuries, facial scarring and severe malnutrition.

“I’m not sure ‘horrific’ covers it. This is sheer madness.”

“I’ve been a policeman a long time — some 40 odd years — and I’ve never seen a victim whose injuries were worse than this woman’s last night. At least not a living victim.”

Public safety post vacated as Gillison takes new post

CITY HALL. Deputy Mayor of Public Safety Everett Gillison will become Mayor Michael Nutter’s chief of staff, filling the position vacated by Clay Armbrister, officials said yesterday.

Gillison has spent Nutter’s entire first term overseeing the police, fire and prison departments. He will now serve as Nutter’s right hand and spokesman on a number of issues. The deputy mayor post will not be filled. METRO/SDL

NJ Transit fares go digital

NEW JERSEY. Some NJ Transit customers will soon become the first in the country to be able to pay fares with their smartphones instead of cash or credit.

The free mobile application called Google Wallet "transforms customers' smartphones into their wallets, making tap and pay transactions quick and convenient by storing virtual versions of users' credit cards on their phones," according to NJ Transit.

The service will be available at New York City's Penn Station, Newark International Airport's train station and on some bus routes. METRO/KB

More red light cameras

PHILADELPHIA. City Council gave preliminary approval yesterday to install red light cameras at two additional intersections in Northeast Philadelphia.

One will be at Byberry and Worthington roads and one at Woodhaven and Knights roads.

The Philadelphia Parking Authority currently has 90 cameras at 20 intersections. METRO/AW

'Hard' to close empty classrooms

- Report found Philly School District will have rocky path downsizing
- 40K empty seats in city schools

The Philadelphia School District's process to downsize through school closings will likely be a contentious one with little financial benefit in the short-term, according to a report released yesterday.

The report from Pew Charitable Trusts' Philadelphia Research Initiative, which examined the process in six other cities, found that the average annual savings is minimal short-term. It also suggests there is minimal impact on student performance.

With thousands of empty seats across the 163,000-student district, officials are expected to release a right-sizing plan early next month with a final vote by the School Reform Commission in early 2012. The district has seen public school enrollment drop steadily due to fewer school-age children and the booming rise of charter school enrollment.

The best way to gain public acceptance is to hire outside experts to guide the process and vote on schools as a group instead of individually, the report says.

"This is hard," concluded Larry Eichel, the report's author. "Even when the process is done with all the thinking, in the best of all possible circumstances, there's nothing easy about this."

Moment of clarity?

Philadelphia has history of backroom dealing in large-scale initiatives of this sort, but district spokesman Fernando Gallard said officials are going to great lengths to have transparency.

"We are committed to the public process and will make sure that it's transparent and everyone is included," Gallard said. METRO/SDL

Greeks take streets to protest austerity

Middle class hit hard by past measures ◗ General strike, police clashes mark discontent of the masses

Greece's parliament gave initial approval yesterday to a new round of belt-tightening needed to avert default, despite violent protests during the biggest rally in two years against the bitterly resented measures.

Hours after Greek police clashed with black-clad demonstrators outside parliament, all 154 of the ruling Socialist PASOK party's lawmakers voted in favor of the measures, which must secure a second vote today before the new wave of austerity is enforced.

The view of the ancient Acropolis was obscured by smoke from burning piles of rubbish and a bank building was evacuated after being set on fire by petrol bombs as a strike called by Greece's two main unions degenerated into violence outside parliament.

48 hrs

Much of the country was shut down by the 48-hour general strike, the largest since the outbreak of the crisis two years ago — with government departments, offices and shops closed and at least 100,000 people taking to the streets.

"It's one of the biggest demonstrations in recent years," said Mary Bossis, international security professor at the University of Piraeus. "People showed they were determined to protest against these policies."

After repeated rounds of austerity measures, which have hit middle class Greeks hard, protesters said new cuts would only drive the stricken economy deeper into the ground. Unions urged deputies not to pass the law.

Trapped in the fourth year of deep recession, which few now believe can be paid back, Greece has sunk even deeper into crisis. REUTERS

UPS, FedEx benefit in USPS plan

UPS and FedEx, which have long been undercut by the U.S. Postal Service's low prices for package delivery, could have much to gain as the agency faces a painful restructuring.

Lawmakers are weighing a suite of options for the struggling Postal Service, including shuttering about 3,600 post offices and hundreds of processing facilities, ending Saturday delivery and scrapping overnight delivery of letters and postcards. REUTERS

Exotic pets shot by police in Ohio, owner found dead

GETTY IMAGES

▶ The sign says it all.

An Ohioan collector of bears, lions and dozens of exotic animals allegedly freed them before killing himself yesterday. Terry Thompson kept the creatures in small pens and fed his lions meat from malnourished horses, an animal welfare expert said.

"When he was charged with animal neglect, there were complaints that he wasn't feeding his horses enough. ... When they would die, he would feed them to the lions," said Larry Hostetler, executive director of the Muskingum County Animal Shelter.

"We've been trying to get him shut down since 2003," Hostetler said, adding that authorities had made several visits to Thompson's farm since 2004 and found underfed animals with open sores.

Thompson, 61, was found dead at the farm from an apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound. Sheriff's deputies shot and killed most of the 50-odd lions, tigers, bears and other big animals he set loose from their pens. A monkey was still at large as of last night, the Muskingum County Sheriff said.

Thompson was released last month from federal prison on a firearms conviction; agents raided his farm in June 2008 and found 133 guns. Court documents showed that he told an informant he dealt guns illegally after giving up his license five years earlier.

Thompson's wife cared for the animals during his absence, Hostetler said. REUTERS

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

GOP special delivery: Herman Cain on top?

The pizza man cometh ◗ Surprise libertarian candidate makes splash among right wing ◗ His 999 plan is the standout policy among debaters

Tuesday's GOP debate confirmed it: A new force — the Herminator — has entered U.S. politics. Pizza entrepreneur Herman Cain, once dismissed as a political joke, is the surprise Republican front-runner.

Recent polls show Cain, the former CEO of Godfather's Pizza, ahead of presumptive Republican nominee Mitt Romney. That's a gigantic leap for Cain, a man with almost no political experience or name power, who began his campaign with a tiny war chest.

But the fact that Cain is so different from the other Republican candidates works in his favor. He's the outsider who speaks bluntly and presents unconventional ideas. Though his 999 tax plan, which would slash the income tax rate to 9 percent, has been condemned by tax experts, it has become the campaign's most recognized policy proposal.

At Tuesday's debate, Cain insisted his plan to reduce personal income and corporate taxes to 9 percent and create a 9 percent national sales tax would not raise taxes on middle-income Americans despite expert analysis that it would. REUTERS

By contrast, Mitt Romney has statesman-like looks and a well-funded campaign, but has been unable to formulate his policies in a catchy way. Rick Perry, another presumed front-runner, has damaged his campaign with a number of serious gaffes. And Michele Bachman has seen her Tea Party supporters defect to the Herminator camp.

Even so, the political elite doesn't view Cain, a Baptist pastor and part-time radio host, as a serious contender. And as a libertarian Republican, he hasn't endeared himself to his fellow African-Americans. Singer Harry Belafonte recently called Cain, the son of a cleaning-woman and a janitor from Tennessee, a "false Negro."

Most likely, Cain won't win the Republican nomination. But Mr. Straight Talk will have set a new tone in the Republican Party.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Lindsay Lohan in cuffs once more

Trying to figure out Lindsay Lohan's many legal infractions is like trying to remember all the Duggar kids: There are just too many to count.

Yesterday the actress got into even more trouble while at her progress report hearing in Los Angeles, Calif. Judge Stephanie Sautner scoffed at the lack of hours put toward her court-ordered community service and suspended Lohan's probation. Her bail was set at $100,000 (which Lohan quickly paid); and to add insult to injury, she was handcuffed before she was taken into custody. But before Lohan even walked into a courtroom yesterday, Judge Sautner ordered that she be taken off her community service assignment at the Red Cross and focus instead on the 120 hours of work she must complete at the county morgue, according to TMZ. She will apparently be cleaning tables where autopsies are performed, the site reports. She'll also be doing basic custodial duties like sweeping floors, cleaning toilets and emptying the trash.

Just to help refresh your memory, Lohan's current legal problems stem from her 2007 drunk-driving conviction and a jewelry theft conviction earlier this year.

▶ Lohan is handcuffed in court. Lohan's other travesty of justice? Her courtroom zombie makeup. For more close-ups of what we hope is just a tragic use of blush, visit www.metro.us.

Wolverine as James Bond?

Hugh Jackman says he was considered to take over the role of James Bond before it ultimately went to Daniel Craig. "I got a call from my agent saying, 'There is some possible interest in you for Bond. Are you interested?' At the time, I wasn't," Jackman says, according to Total Film. "I was about to shoot 'X-Men 2,' and 'Wolverine' had become this thing in my life. I didn't want to be doing two such iconic characters at once." Still, should anything happen to knock Craig out of the role, Jackman still wants to be considered. "I think every male at some point thinks about playing James Bond," he says. "So it was not right then, but it may be right if it comes back."

The singing and dancing Jackman as Bond? Yes, please! It's about time to have a Bond who can shoot darts out of his cuff links while throwing down a tap dancing routine at the same time.

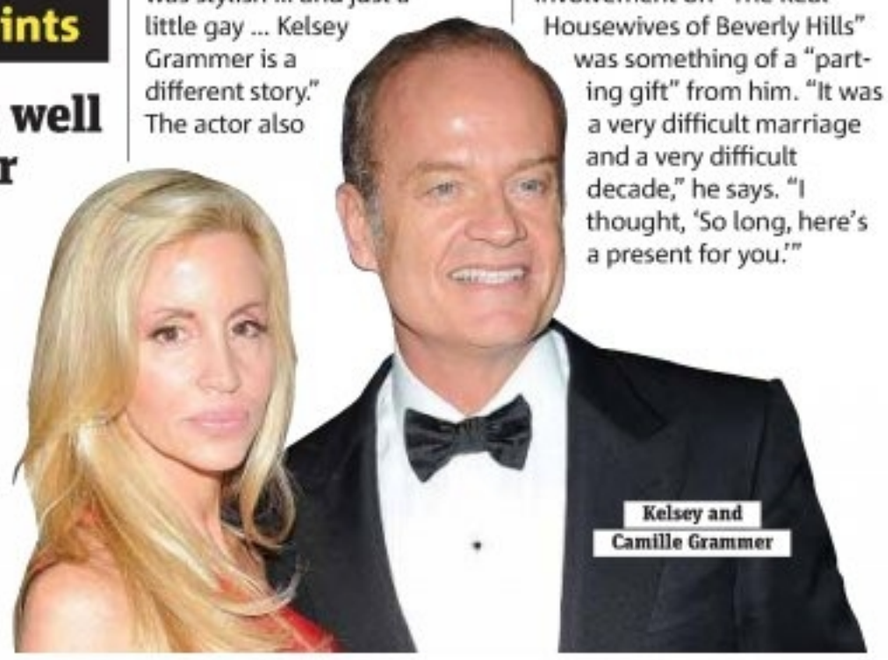
Talking points

All was not well in Grammer marriage

Kelsey Grammer thinks that ex-wife Camille Grammer had some pretty tough expectations when they first got together. "I think she married me because I was 'Frasier,'" Kelsey tells Piers Morgan in an interview. "[Frasier] had this great wonderful life ... he was stylish ... and just a little gay ... Kelsey Grammer is a different story." The actor also claims that his ex-wife's involvement on "The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills" was something of a "parting gift" from him. "It was a very difficult marriage and a very difficult decade," he says. "I thought, 'So long, here's a present for you.'"



Kelsey and Camille Grammer

Clooney's recent PDA

George Clooney and Stacy Keibler are upping the ante when it comes to red carpet displays of affection, according to Us Weekly. Most recently? Hitting Paris for the French premiere of his new film, "The Descendants," with Keibler on his arm — just as she was early this week in New York. Clooney and Keibler "gazed adoringly at each other" while stopping for photographs on the way into the theater.

Witherspoon hearts Aniston

Jennifer Aniston was honored at Elle magazine's 18th annual Women in Hollywood Tribute, and her presenter, pal Reese Witherspoon, couldn't contain her enthusiasm for the former "Friends" star, according to Us Weekly. "On one hand, she is this gorgeous, breathtaking beauty that men lose their thought process and their speech patterns [over] — I've actually seen this, it's incredible when they see her — and, on the other hand, she is a woman who lets you in," Witherspoon gushed. "There's not that many people actually that have this incredible combination. You just want to get your nails done with her, and you want to make out with her at the same time ... at least I do."

THE PHILADELPHIA FILM FESTIVAL TURNS 20

Times have changed, but the need to properly present thoughtful, engaging films has not This year's highlights

When the Philadelphia Film Festival debuted, there was no Netflix. There were no DVDs to slip into non-existent Netflix envelopes. And there was not — prepare yourself — high-speed Internet for those nights when you'd rather just stream "Eurotrip" and ignore the artsy new release judging you from the coffee table.

And so 20 years later, while the festival is no longer the only chance to see many films, it is a rare opportunity to experience them in a theater, with people, far removed from the temptations of that high-speed Internet. "With all these alternative means of distribution, the festival becomes almost the domestic release for a lot of these films," says J. Andrew Greenblatt, Executive Director of the Philadelphia Film Society and the festival. "In a city like Philadelphia, where we only have something like 14 screens in Center City, the festival identifies these films and shows them in the way they deserve to be shown."

Spanning 15 days and packing 120 films, there's plenty to see. We asked Greenblatt for three of his can't-miss picks.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
monica.weymouth@metro.us

▶ "Joe Frazier: When the Smoke Clears"

'Like Crazy'

Opening the festival tonight, "Like Crazy" took home the Grand Jury prize at Sundance this year. "It's a powerful, beautiful, heartbreaking but ultimately fulfilling film," says Greenblatt of this story of a budding romance interrupted by visas and the red tape that comes with them. "On the surface it looks like it skews younger, but it really does appeal to all audiences."

Tonight, 8 p.m., The Annenberg Center; Sunday, 2 p.m., The Ritz East

▶ "Like Crazy"

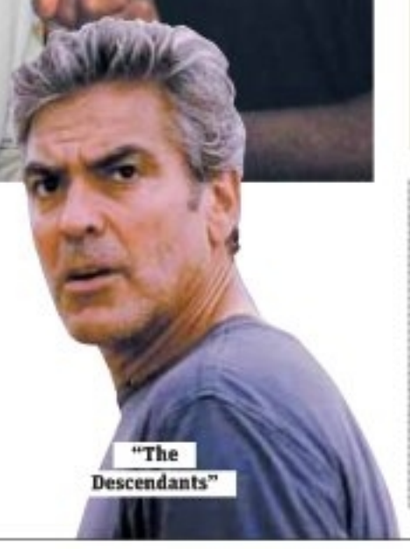
'Joe Frazier: When the Smoke Clears'

This documentary on the legendary Philly boxer is just one of a collection of sports-oriented films this year. "'Joe Frazier' was a submission — we didn't even know it existed — and we just loved it from the beginning. Joe Frazier isn't just a Philly icon, he's an international boxing icon — he beat Ali."

Saturday, 4:45 p.m., Prince Music Theater; Sunday, 9:25 p.m., Ritz East

If you go

The Philadelphia Film Festival runs tonight through Oct. 29 with screenings at area theaters. Visit www.filmadelphia.org for ticket and showtime info.



"The Descendants"

'The Descendants'

Alexander Payne's latest film stars George Clooney as a father attempting to full-time parent for the first time after his wife is injured in a boating accident. "It's certainly going to get him the nomination — if not the award — he's been waiting for," says Greenblatt of Clooney's performance.

5 Reasons to go to the movies this week

▶ "Paranormal Activity 3"

1 "Paranormal Activity 3" "Catfish" director Henry Joost takes on the third installment of this reality TV-like horror series, which shows haunted lady Katie's first experiences with supernatural entities back in 1988.

2 "The Three Musketeers" Orlando Bloom stars in the newest take on what we enjoy most when it's chocolate-covered nougat.

3 "Margin Call" Did you not exactly wrap your head around the fiscal meltdown of September 2008? Well, this finance thriller, if we can call it that, aims to explain it with a stellar cast including Kevin Spacey, Demi Moore and Zachary Quinto.

4 "Johnny English Reborn" Mr. Bean may be lost and gone forever, but Rowan Atkinson returns with a special agent for MI7, whose cluelessness just happens to be one of his best tools for saving the day.

5 "Footloose" The 1980s classic starring Kevin Bacon gets an update. Yes, dancing is still banned in an entire town, but director Craig Brewer's take on what could've been even worse than "Step Up 3D" is much smarter than it looks.

Dum Dum Girls get smart

California four-piece grow up with 'Only in Dreams' Singer talks about what she thinks is and isn't different with her band's new album

The difference between the Dum Dum Girls' 2010 debut and this year's "Only in Dreams" is undeniable. Yet singer and guitarist Kristen Gundred tries to deny it. At least at first.

"To me it's not a dramatic shift," she says. "It's part of a process."

The singer, who writes all of the songs and goes by the stage name of Dee Dee, says that if there is any difference, it may have to do with her recording setup.

"When I started, it was just something I was doing in my spare time in my house," she says, "but what I do, it hasn't changed much. I write simple pop songs, and try to infuse them with meaningful words. That's always been my deal."

It's hard to tell if she's being humble or stubborn. While all Dum Dum songs do fit Dee Dee's description — both albums showcase an appreciation for both the classic songs of the '50s and '60s as well as the punk rock that followed in the next two decades — the biggest change is that on the debut, the guitars flood over elementary melodies, while the "Only in Dreams" sound is full of proud and pronounced melodies that float on top of richly textured instruments. The lyrics are also more sophisticated, at times dealing with the singer's mother's fatal illness. Dee Dee admits that her tone has changed.

"I was sort of into having a bit more of a nonchalant tone at the time," she says of the debut. "That's just not appropriate for the most recent batch of songs."

'Gets Me High'

The Dum Dum Girls EP from this summer, "He Gets Me High," is a perfect transition between the two types of Dum Dum sounds. It also features a killer cover of The Smiths' "There Is A Light That Never Goes Out."

"A lot of times, it's just a song I love," says Dee Dee of her covers philosophy. "Or it's something where regardless of the style ... there's an undeniable pop element of the song I can cover in a very Dum Dum Girls way."

3 Tips for flex employment

- Be prepared before searching for a work-from-home or part-time job
- Noelle Frieson of JobProsper on how to stand out at this weekend's job fair

Have a home office

"We tell people that they have to have their home office ready," she says. "All of these companies are going to require that you have a computer, high-speed Internet and a land line." If possible, she also recommends lining up a babysitter for young children.

Narrow down your prospects

As working remotely becomes more popular, it's easy to get lost in the listings. "First, decide what kind of job you want to do, and what you're really good at," says Frieson. "If you narrow down what you're looking for, it'll make it easier."

Go through reputable organizations

JobProsper screens the companies that attend their job fairs, only admitting those that have at least a B rating on file with the Better Business Bureau. Frieson also recommends established sites such as VIPdesk.com and Arise.com.

If you go

The JobProsper Job Fair will be in Philly on Sunday (11 a.m.-4 p.m.) at Lincoln Financial Field. At 2 p.m., there will be a panel on flexible employment. Visit jobprosper.com for more info and to register for free.

MONICA WEYMOUTH
monica.weymouth@metro.us

Who will be there?

Vendors at the JobProsper Job Fair include Verizon, Lane Bryant, Whole Foods, New Customer Service Corp., Securitas Securities, Any Art, Adecco Staffing, Prosperiti Public Relations and more.

Mentoring for success

To attract and retain great people, several things need to coalesce, and effective mentoring is a key element, says Harvard Business Review.

Here are three types of mentoring you should consider, as adapted from "Keeping Great People with Three Kinds of Mentors," by Anthony Tjan. REUTERS

Buddy or peer mentors

In the early stages of a person's career, a "buddy" can help speed up the learning curve. This relationship helps the protege understand how things work at the organization.

Career mentors

After the initial period at a workplace, employees need to have a senior manager serve as a career advisor and advocate.

Life mentors

A life mentor serves as a periodic sounding board when one is faced with a career challenge. Organizations can't necessarily offer a life mentor but they can encourage seeing one.

We all owe the company store

After the Civil War, former slaves who continued to work on plantations invariably learned that they owed more to the "company store" than they had earned by their labors. As a result, they were required to work to pay off the debt; thus, becoming enslaved once again. In 2011, many Americans overburdened with debt, limited income and opportunity face a similar scenario, but instead of the "company store," they are obligated to banks.

GLENN HAYES, VIA E-MAIL

Outraged when convenient?

RE: "OBAMA WANTS TO DESTROY US": I don't seem to remember any Republicans screaming about the national credit card that Bush was using to fund two wars and the Prescription Drug bill. The difference between Obama and Bush is that while Obama is trying to bail the country out of the mess the Republicans spent us into, Bush just put money into the pockets of his cronies.

BARB MILUSKI, VIA E-MAIL

Two wars provided by former President Bush. Economic collapse caused by Wall Street bankers. Jobs sent overseas for workers paid 10 cents per hour. I guess people can wait on the 270 Republican officials who do have a job.

JAMES MCRAE, VIA E-MAIL

Don't forget your elders!

Congress should protect seniors' benefits. Raising the Medicare eligibility age is not right; it would raise out-of-pocket costs by $2,200 each year. Nor should Social Security benefits be cut, as this would be an extreme burden on us. RONALD LOFTON, VIA E-MAIL

OWS getting short shrift

Over the past month of reading your articles, it has been plainly evident that you are trying to undermine the OWS movement in any way you can. Did you treat the Tea Party rallies and their supporters with the same critical eye? Shame on you.

CHENIER SPENCER, VIA E-MAIL

Outsourcing is anti-Americans

I agree with Occupy that we must do something about the greed, but let's hit them where it hurts. Lets boycott all American companies that outsource jobs overseas at the cost of the American tax dollars spent to improve their bottom line.

JAMES M. HAWKINS, SR, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Be wary of taking a financial risk on an involvement that you cannot personally control. You might end up paying for someone else's mistakes.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. It's sad but true that not everyone you deal with will abide by the same high standards you set for yourself. Be careful not to trip over your own naivete.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Even though you have a sharp eye for details, it might be difficult for you to see the entire picture. You should stand back a bit.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Schedule your day so that responsibilities are given greater priority over pleasurable pursuits. Unless you think ahead and use reason, you could waste valuable time.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Be careful that you don't base your judgment and decision-making on emotional rather than logical aspects of your life. You'd fare better if the emphasis were reversed.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. You'll regret it later if you are irresponsible in handling your personal funds. Wasteful extravagance will emerge victorious if you aren't disciplined.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. If you promise or give away much more than you should when cutting a deal, you'll regret it later. Be fair to others, but make sure that you're taken care of, too.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Make sure you distinguish the difference between positive and mere wishful thinking. The former enhances success; the latter only invites failure.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. All types of material opportunities hover about you at this point in time. But you might not even recognize them for what they are, owing to an indifferent attitude on your part. Be alert.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. It isn't right to expect others to do things for you that you can do equally well or even manage far more competently then they, unless you're paying them to do so. Don't expect any free rides.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Even though you're a rather perceptive individual, you could be taken in and accept something at face value instead of checking things out as you usually do. Don't be naive.

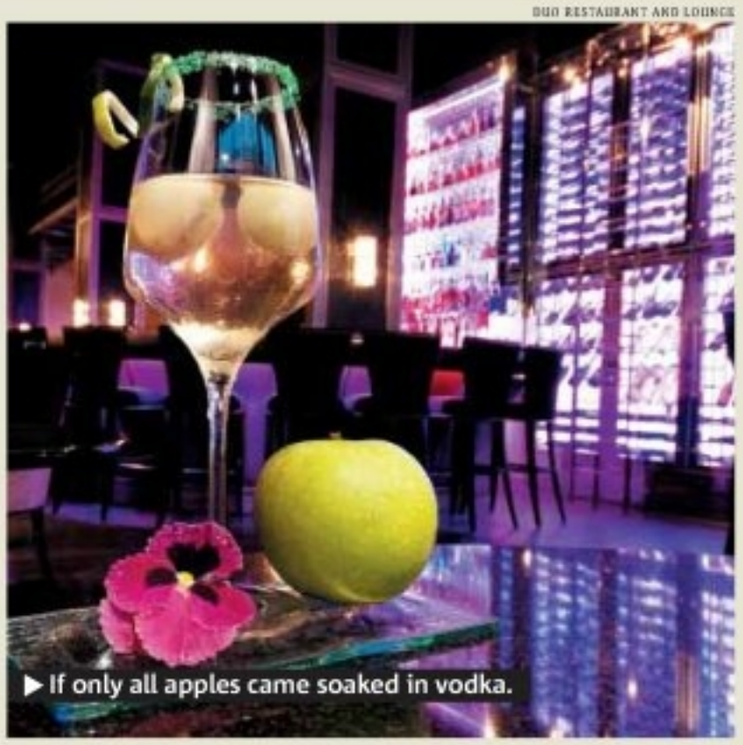
Want your trick-or-treating loot in a cocktail glass instead of a bag? Metro has got you covered! Here are some creepy cocktail recipes that will put a spooky spin on any party

DUO RESTAURANT AND LOUNGE



▶ If only all apples came soaked in vodka.

Bobbing for Apples Time Martini

Ingredients:

- 2 oz. Absolut vodka
- 2 oz. apple juice
- ½ oz. simple syrup
- 5 sprigs of fresh thyme
- 1 large green apple, peeled and made into spheres with a melon baller
- 4 sprigs fresh thyme (for garnish, optional)

How to prepare: Place vodka, syrup, apple juice and thyme into cocktail shaker with ice cubes and shake. Strain into cocktail glass; add three apple balls and garnish with thyme sprigs if using.

▶ Who you gonna call? Karma Tequila's cocktail.

Ghost Buster

Ingredients:

- 1¼ oz. Karma tequila
- 1 oz. fresh pear nectar
- ½ oz. homemade sweet and sour
- ¼ oz. H. Walker pear Schnapps
- 1 lime wedge (squeezed)
- 1 dash of Amoretti pumpkin spice edible perfume

Garnish:

- Bosc pear, hand carved (see photo)
- Cinnamon powder
- White sugar

How to prepare: In the mixing glass, pour Karma Tequila and pear nectar (make sure you are using pear nectar and not pear juice — otherwise your drink will be runny and flavorless instead of smooth and slick). Next, add the homemade sweet and sour (whip it up like this: mix 16 ounces of fresh squeezed lemon juice with 16 ounces of simple syrup). Finish by adding the pear Schnapps, Amoretti and a squeeze of a lime wedge (plus the lime) in the mixing glass. Fill the shaker with ice, pour the mix from the mixing glass into the shaker and shake your Ghost Buster. Pour into a cocktail glass rimmed with cinnamon sugar, and then garnish with a carved pear.

Shelf life

Spooky sipping

What we're drinking: Vampire Vineyard's Trueblood Pinot Noir.
What it tastes like: Perfectly respectable pinot noir for everyday drinking, despite its kitschy name. Fruity and smooth, this Cali wine was aged in French oak barrels and skews noticeably sweet rather than smoky.
Pair it with: Whatever they're serving at the Halloween party. You bought this one for the "Trueblood" label, so don't try to get too fancy, OK? That said, it's an especially easy-drinking bottle of the notoriously versatile wine.
Don't pair it with: Fangs. Take it from us, there is absolutely no way to negotiate a wine glass around those babies, and it will get harder to resist trying as the night goes on.

MONICA WEYMOUTH

Go ahead — serve it with Kit Kats.

More tricks and treats

Vampyre Red Vodka is essentially just vodka with red dye, but we'll bite. The ruby liquid looks great in the gothic bottle, making it the perfect hostess gift to tote along for the girl who will be cleaning fake blood out of her couch for months.

We'll make this quick before we make another bad "MMMbop" joke: Hanson is in town tonight, and as the long line of 20-something girls lurking outside the TLA will attest, they never really went away.

"We are not one-hit wonders because of a stubborn perseverance to continue to do what we love doing," Zac Hanson, now 26, told us recently. "When we were kids, people would ask us stupid questions like, 'What do you want to do when you grow up?' It was so frustrating, [like], 'People, give me a little respect! I am 12, but I'm here working!'"

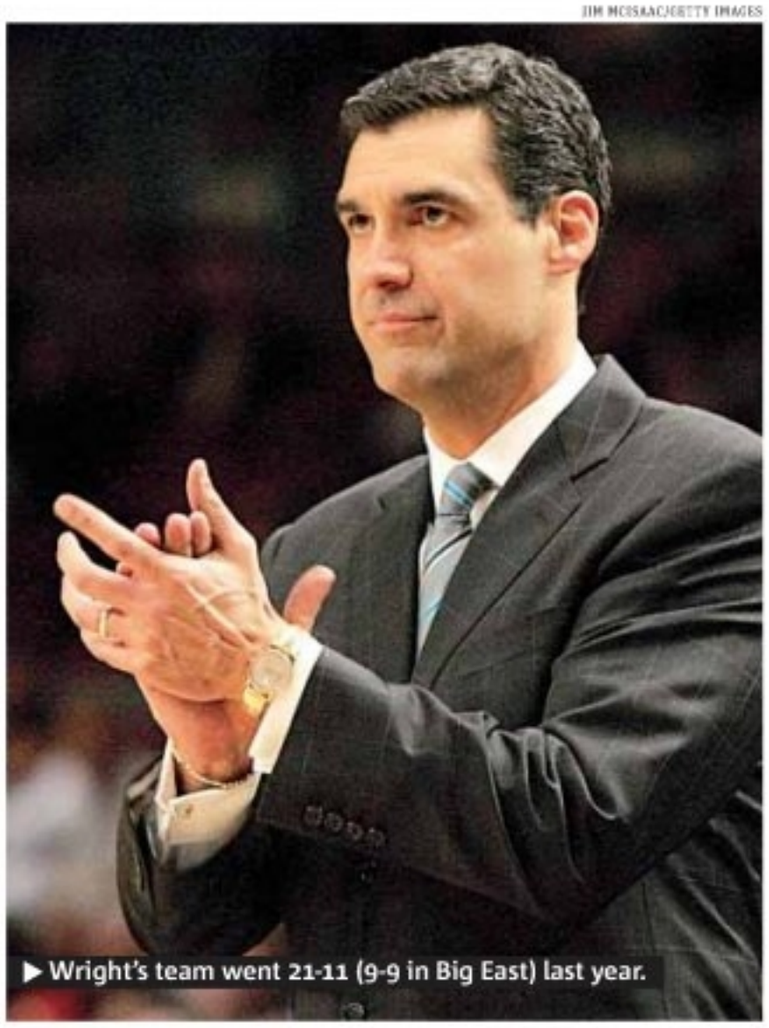
Wildcats look to thrive on lower expectations

Villanova's young roster will have to mature quickly in tough Big East ◗ Players seemed to bond during summer trip to Europe ◗ Wright's squad ranked eighth in preseason poll

JIM MCISAAC/GETTY IMAGES



▶ Wright's team went 21-11 (9-9 in Big East) last year.

Villanova is used to being picked among the top teams in the Big East. But this year is different.

After failing to win a game in the Big East tournament and NCAA tournament last season, the young 'Cats were picked eighth in the preseason coaches' poll.

Much of that has to do with the losses of Corey Fisher, Corey Stokes and Antonio Pena. Maalik Wayns, who was voted preseason All-Big East second team, is now the leader, Mouphtaou Yarou needs to become a dominant force down low, and James Bell and Dominic Cheek will enter the starting lineup.

Villanova coach Jay Wright believes a trip to Europe this summer really helped his team mesh and get ready for the season.

"When you have a young team, it takes some time," Wright said. "But we were able to go away this summer, to Europe, together. And we really got a lot out of it. Our guys really came down together really quick."

The 'Cats, typically reliant on guard play, will have more size and bulk than usual with Yarou, Maurice Sutton, and freshmen JayVaughn Pinkston and Markus Kennedy in the front-court rotation.

"This summer Mouph [Yarou] played against a lot of NBA players on this foreign tour and I think his lowest output was 15 [points] and 12 [rebounds]," Wright said. "I think he's ready to break out on the scene."

Villanova will open on Nov. 11 at home against Monmouth. A projected eighth-place finish in the 16-team Big East may seem low, but maybe the lower expectations will benefit Wright's young roster.

Big East football talks

The Big East still wants to expand to 12 teams for football.

The plan is to add SMU, Houston, UCF, Navy, Air Force and Boise St. They would join existing schools: UConn, Cincinnati, USF, West Virginia, Louisville and Rutgers.

No invitations have gone out yet, according to commissioner John Marinatto.

Report: NBA stars organizing whirlwind tour

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Bryant

As the NBA lockout continues, its players are taking matters into their own hands.

More than a dozen of the league's top stars are organizing a two-week, six-game, four-continent tour, according to ESPN.

Players expected to participate include: Kobe Bryant, LeBron James, Dwyane Wade, Carmelo Anthony, Chris Paul, Blake Griffin, Kevin Durant and Kevin Garnett.

The whirlwind tour would begin Oct. 30 and end Nov. 9, while making stops in Puerto Rico, London, Macau and Australia. Players would earn salaries — up to $1 million — but some of that may be donated to charity, according to the ESPN report. METRO

Schenn added to Flyers roster

Rookie set to make Philadelphia debut • Recorded eight points at Adirondack • Flyers host Caps today

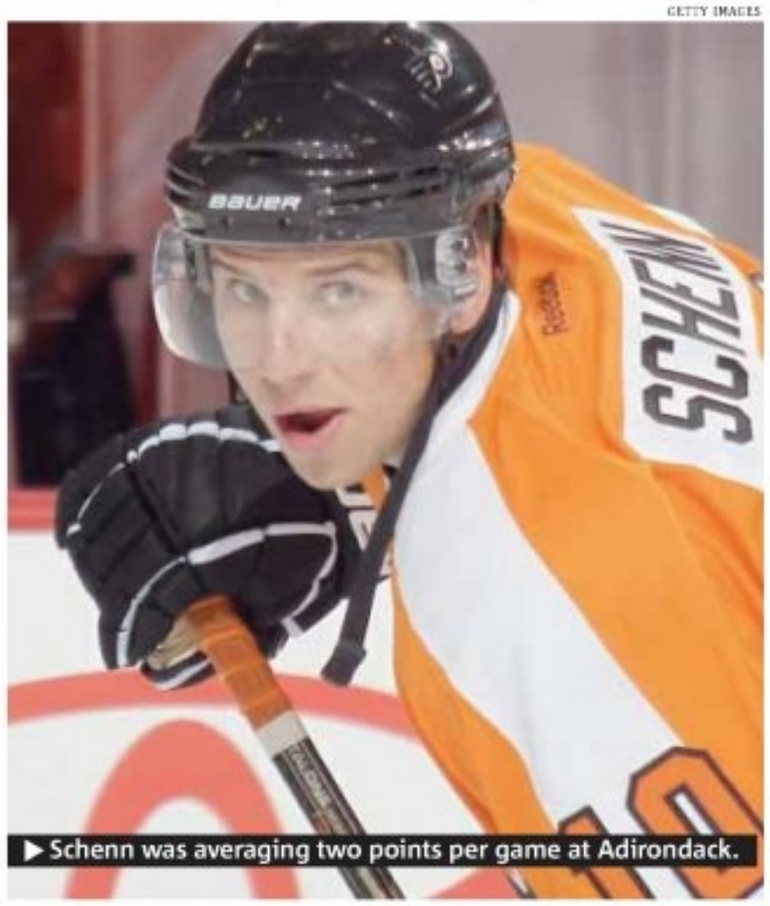
The Flyers are getting younger and more exciting with each passing day. The team announced yesterday that Brayden Schenn had been added to the roster.

Schenn, who was acquired as part of the Mike Richards' blockbuster deal, came into training camp with a lot of hype. But a bum left shoulder, along with an unfriendly cap hit, forced the Flyers to send him to the minors.

"I think we all have a good handle on what he can do, what he can bring," GM Paul Holmgren said prior to the start of the regular season. "Like I said, I don't know if this is going to be short-term or long-term with Brayden."

The 20-year-old started the season with the Adirondack Phantoms, where he recorded eight points (four goals, four assists) in four games. He departs as the AHL's second-leading scorer. To make room, the Flyers have loaned Zac Rinaldo and Harry Zolnierczyk to Adirondack.

GETTY IMAGES



▶ Schenn was averaging two points per game at Adirondack.

Capitals at Flyers, 7 p.m. (CSN)

Schenn was the ninth overall pick in the 2009 NHL Entry Draft and is widely considered NHL-ready. Some publications even had him penciled in as a potential Rookie of the Year candidate.

NFL news

CedBen out

The Cedric Benson saga is over. He will serve his one-game suspension in Week 8. Bernard Scott will make a cameo as the feature back, but isn't a great option against Seattle's underrated run defense.

PALMER, LLOYD MOVING

The NFL's trading deadline is usually as exciting as a Joe Paterno game plan. Not this year.

In a surprising turn of events, Carson Palmer, Brandon Lloyd and Mike Sims-Walker will all be pulling on new uniforms come Sunday. Let the adjustments begin.

Which Carson?

Between 2004 and 2006, Palmer was one of the best quarterbacks in the NFL. Since then, he's been a shell of himself thanks to elbow and knee injuries. While the Raiders are betting that Palmer will return to form, fantasy owners shouldn't be. Look for the Raiders to ride Darren McFadden and Michael Bush, leaving Palmer as a weak QB2.

Reunited and excited

Wide receivers are dependant on quarterback and scheme. Brandon Lloyd was in a horrible spot for both as a Bronco. Now that he's in St. Louis, he's reunited with pass-happy offensive coordinator Josh McDaniels. Lloyd gets a major upgrade, and so does Eric Decker. He'll be Tim Tebow's No. 1 option.

Carson Palmer's arm strength and mobility are question marks.

MSW, Part II

Mike Sims-Walker averaged 3.07 catches for 40.1 yards with the Jags last year. Expecting anything more than that with Blaine Gabbert at the helm is silly.

Keep it up

Will the top players at their respective positions sustain production?

1 Fred Jackson, RB, BUF — F-Jax won't finish as No. 1 RB, but he'll be in the top-5. As weather deteriorates, Bills will lean on him more.

2 Calvin Johnson, WR, DET — Megatron is on pace for 24 touchdowns. He will end up with around 18.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

PUBLISHERS NOTE
All real estate advertising herein is subject to the Federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 and state and local fair housing laws. The Fair Housing Act makes its illegal to advertise any preference, limitations or discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, or national origin or an intention to make any such preference, limitation or discrimination. State or local laws may make unlawful advertising that discriminates on the basis of age, marital status, or sexual orientation. Metro US will not knowingly accept any advertising for real estate which violates the law. The law requires that all dwellings advertised are available on an equal opportunity basis. If you have any questions regarding housing discrimination, call the Long Island Housing Services at 1(800) 660-6920 in Long Island or the Anti-Discrimination Center at (212) 346-7600 in New York City. To file a complaint call HUD toll-free at (800) 669-9777 or the New York City Commission on Human Rights at (212) 306-7500

Notices

Notices

Notice Pursuant to the Land Recycling and Environmental Remediation Standards Act, the Act of May 19, 1995, P.L. #4, No. 2 ("Act 2"), notice is hereby given that Asociacion Puertoriquennos En Marcha and the Jonathan Rose Company ("Remediator") has submitted a Notice of Intent to Remediate and is submitting a Remedial Investigation Report/Final Report to the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, Southeastern Regional Office, for the property known as Paseo Verde, located at 901 West Berks Street, in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania ("Site"). The site was historically used as a rail yard, for coal storage and as a parking lot. Lead and mercury were detected in soils beneath the site, which will be excavated and properly disposed. Remediation measures include demonstration of attainment of Statewide Health Standards through post-excavation soil sampling. Questions and comments should be submitted to the Department of Environmental Protection, Southeast Regional Office, Land Recycling/Cleanup Division, 2 East Main Street, Norristown, Pennsylvania 19401.
